Churchill Steps Down, Eden Takes Over

Purge By Reds In China

They Report Suicide Of Man Who Bossed Five-Year Program; Control Is Tightened

TOKYO (AP)—China's Communist masters cracked down with harsh new discipline in party ranks today in the wake of their first purge of top men since they took over the country in 1949.

Peiping radio announced the startling story to the world today. It said the Communist party had purged Kao Kang, the "Manchurian Stalin," who bossed Red China's faltering five-year plan, and Jao Shu-shih, a Shanghai stalwart who ruled six big eastern provinces in the early days of the Red regime.

Kao committed suicide, Peiping said. Jao, former party secretary for east China, "has never shown any signs of repentance and now persists in an attitude of attacking the party," Peiping said.

That seemed to indicate that Jao is alive.

Peiping charged the two, with conspiring to seize "leadership of the party and the state" with Red army help.

Peiping announced the immediate creation of "party control committees" at all levels to "strengthen discipline and prevent a recurrence of so serious a case as the Kao Kang-Jao Shu-shih antiparty alliance."

"The remnants of counterrevolution and the reactionary bourgeois elements," Peiping said, "are accelerating their conspiracy to restore the counter-revolution."

"The enemy will use a thousand tricks to try to destroy our party," Peiping said in a broadcast of the text of a Communist party resolution. "Its greatest hope is that the Communist party of China might be split and degenerate."

"Party organizations at all levels must continue to fight against the tendency toward personal dictatorship and fragmentation which undermines the principle of collective leadership," the resolution continued.

"The party absolutely cannot allow these vicious tendencies to remain anywhere in the party."

The action was taken Thursday at the close of an 11-day party conference in Peiping. Mao Tse-tung, party chairman and ruler of China, presided.

The new control committees replace "discipline inspection committees" which the Communist ukase said "are no longer suited to the task of strengthening party discipline."

The party will control the membership and work of the new discipline committees at every level, Peiping said.

The resolution said party members were obligated to report "all suspected violations of party law and discipline to party control committees."

Oklahomans Deciding On Constitutional United Amendment.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahoma voters today were deciding on a constitutional amendment which, if approved, clears the way for integration of white and Negro students and gives local school districts the chance for considerable more money.

The vote was expected to be light, upwards of about 300,000.

Gov. Raymond Gary, who has predicted victory for the amendment, is staking the reputation of his administration on passage. He pushed it through the legislature and has campaigned for it over the state.

Fine Day to Vote

Duo Arrested For Passing Bogus Checks

Charged With Passing Bad Check At Smithton Firm

The desire to grab a snack resulted in the apprehension of a young couple who have been accused of passing worthless checks in the Sedalia area Monday. They were seen sitting in the car parked on a road west of Dresden along the Missouri Pacific right-of-way by Trooper Earl Gregory, of the State Highway Patrol, who decided to make a routine check, and after questioning them took the two into custody for investigation.

At the county jail the woman said, "We were eating some of the groceries which were bought with one of the checks. We were hungry and decided to eat a bite before going on."

They were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Leon M. Whitaker, Tacoma, Wash., Mrs. Whitaker as the former Ida M. Scott, Ellinwood, Kan., who told Trooper Gregory she had served a sentence in Kansas for false pretense but had been paroled and later received a pardon.

Her husband is a private in the Army, stationed at Fort Lewis, Washington, from which he told the trooper he had been absent without leave since about March 6.

The two told Trooper Gregory, Deputy Sheriff George Brown, and a newspaper reporter they had passed six checks for $20 each and in each case had spent part of the money. They had $117 in money on them when picked up by Trooper Gregory.

According to their story they first cashed a check at the E. A. Lemke Grocery in Smithton, and bought about $2.68 in groceries; then one at the Eunice Beauty Salon where she had her hair washed, rinsed and set and received cash difference; another at the Bell Shoe Co., where Whitaker got a pair of $12.98 shoes; another at Maxine's Maternity Dress Shop where she obtained a dress and paid a deposit to hold another dress; one at the Haynes Drug Store in Green Ridge where about $1.88 was spent; and one to a grocery store on West Main which they could not immediately identify.

The pickup for the two was made when Lemke became suspicious. (Please turn to page 4, Column 8)

Missouri Can Expect Temperature Nearer Normal During Week

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Missouri can expect temperatures near normal the rest of this week, the Weather Bureau said today.

Its five-day forecast, starting tomorrow, said the normal readings are between a high of 64 and a low of 43.

Precipitation is forecast for Thursday and Friday. It will range from as much as an inch in the southeast to .25 of an inch in the northwest.

Temperatures fell off 10 to 15 degrees in western Missouri last night. The drop in Kansas City was from 61 to 45.

Overnight minimums included 38 at Kirksville, 40 at St. Joseph and Butler, 46 at Joplin and Sedalia and 47 at Springfield.

Showers and thunderstorms were forecast for this afternoon in the southeast, and they are to spread over the south portion late tonight and tomorrow.

Upholds Witness Pressure

Notes of Reluctance Evident In Three Judges' Decision; Appeal Is Likely

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. Court of Appeals has unanimously upheld the new law designed to compel witnesses to testify under immunity from prosecution in cases involving the national security.

There were notes of reluctance in the three judges' decision, however, as the law passed its first test of constitutionality.

Chief Judge Charles E. Clark said in a separate opinion: "I concur but regretfully. For the steady and now precipitate erosion of the Fifth Amendment seems to me to have gone far beyond anything within the conception of those justices of the Supreme Court who by the narrowness of margins first gave support to the trend in the 1890s."

The unanimous opinion, written by Judge Jerome N. Frank, suggested that the case should be heard by "18 other" ears—the nine-member U.S. Supreme Court.

Separate concurring opinions were written by both Clark and Judge Clarence Golson.

The case, decided yesterday, is expected to reach the Supreme Court ultimately.

Specifically, the Court of Appeals affirmed a six-month jail term imposed on William Ludwig Ullman, former Air Force major and government civilian employee, for contempt of court.

Ullman twice refused to testify before a grand jury here investigating a Washington wartime espionage ring after immunity from prosecution had been granted to him under the new law by U.S. Dist. Judge Edward Weinfeld.

Ullman, 47, has been accused a number of times of being a former Soviet spy inside the Pentagon.

In refusing to answer questions before the grand jury, Ullman contended the government was invoking the new immunity law as a device to entrap him into a perjury charge, even though the immunity granted would make it impossible for him to incriminate himself as a spy.

Sentenced last March 8, he began a legal assault on the law, designed to draw information from passed by Congress last year, concerns witnesses before both grand juries and congressional committees in cases involving national security.

Clark's opinion yesterday said: "There is much in the defendant's contention that at the end of the road is a charge of perjury supported by the oath of a renegade or paid informer."

Eisenhower Switches His Voting Residence To Pennsylvania Farm

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has switched his voting residence from New York to Pennsylvania, where he owns a farm.

To make it official, Francis Worley, a member of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, arranged to present Eisenhower to a resolution of the State Legislature welcoming him as a resident of Adams County. Eisenhower's farm, on the Gettysburg battlefield, is in Adams County, which Worley represents.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said yesterday the President became a voting Pennsylvania resident last month when he stayed overnight at his farm for the first time.

News Flashes—

Dulles Forecasts Delay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today it is unlikely any formal meeting of Western foreign ministers with Russia could be arranged as early as June.

Two Residents Injured—

Fierce Winds Rip Texas Town, Damaging Buildings and Trees

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—Tornado-like winds ripped through Stamford in northwest Texas today, damaging buildings, utility lines and trees. Two persons suffered minor injuries outside Stamford.

Mrs. C. M. Latham, about 60, had a finger almost severed by breaking glass at her home east of Stamford. C. M. May, about 80, was blown out of his house and suffered shock and cuts about the head.

Reports of other injuries were reported unconfirmed—the victims had the measles. Five children of the A. D. Greene family were taken to a hospital because their doctor feared they would suffer because of damage to their home.

A vast area of northwest Texas reported damaging winds, heavy hail and some rain.

The Weather Bureau warned that severe thunderstorms and locally damaging winds were in prospect most of the day for a 100-mile wide path of Texas from Abilene to within 50 miles of Fort Smith, Ark.

At Stamford, observers said it definitely was not a tornado.

An insurance man, C. F. Upshaw, gave a preliminary tentative estimate of damage as ranging from $100,000 to $200,000.

The twisting winds hit about 6 a.m. lightning cracked, thunder boomed and hail danced across rooftops and covered the ground like snow.

Queen Accepts Change Reluctantly

US Expects Same Policy Under Eden

WASHINGTON (AP)—American officials kept a sentimental eye cocked today at No. 10 Downing Street to catch the expected final exit of Sir Winston Churchill as British Prime Minister.

But his anticipated succession by Sir Anthony Eden presaged no shift in American-British relations. No plans were afoot, for instance, to bring together Eden and President Eisenhower.

For one thing, American and British positions are abundantly clear on both sides of the Atlantic. And the two may get together anyway with the French head of government in advance of a Big Four meeting with the Russians which seems to be shaping up.

Nevertheless, there is no real difficulty in arranging a U. S.-British meeting at top level at any time, if the British seek one. When Churchill and Eden flew to Washington last summer for talks with Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, Dulles said the Britons had "a sort of standing invitation from the President . . . to come over here whenever it was convenient."

On the question of a Big Four conference, Eden has been somewhat closer than Churchill to the American viewpoint. Churchill, until recently, had been holding out for a East-West gathering "at the summit" as he puts it, whereas Eden had paralleled the Eisenhower view that a session of foreign ministers might be enough to test Russian good faith.

It remains to be seen whether, once "at the summit" himself, Eden will be satisfied to let his replacement as foreign secretary negotiate with the Russians. From his new vantage point, he might be inclined more to Churchill's idea.

One new factor of uncertain weight is personal. Dulles and Eden are known to have emitted a few sparks on the occasions when their paths crossed in separate approaches to solutions for the same global problems.

Battle Biggest Fire In History Of N. Carolina

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Fire fighters and military personnel battled today to halt the largest forest fire in North Carolina history. It has destroyed more than 250,000 acres of timberland in two eastern counties.

The fire, possibly the largest ever to burn in the South, swept past the village of Ponzer yesterday but no homes were lost. Another Hyde County village, Scranton, was threatened.

The fire broke out in the swampy area near Lake Phelps in Tyrrell County last week.

A Washington, N.C., National Guard unit of two officers and 45 men was dispatched to the scene by Gov. Luther Hodges. Marine authorities at Camp Lejeune sent a big pumping outfit and 50 men. From Ft. Bragg came four pumps. Three pumps were sent by Coast Guard installations.

Asst. State Forester P. W. Tillman estimated the fire had burned a distance of about 20 miles. He said it was the "largest fire we've ever had."

No estimate of the damage was available.

Passed Unanimously—

TVA Board Requests Right To Raise Money, Pay Debts

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority has proposed plans for raising some of its own power expansion money and paying the equivalent of interest on federal investments in the system as well.

The money would supplement congressional appropriations and revenues available from its power operations.

In a report to the Bureau of the Budget on a study made at President Eisenhower's suggestion, the three-man TVA Board recommended unanimously that laws be passed which would:

1. Empower it to issue bonds secured by its power revenues without adding to the obligations of the federal Treasury.

2. Allow it to enter lease-purchase agreements with its local distributors for building generating units.

3. Require it to pay the Treasury a return on its power investment equal to the average cost of money borrowed by the Treasury through marketable obligations.

4. Relieve it of the present requirement of repaying the government's investment in 40 years and instead give it the option of re-investing to make up for depreciation or reducing its capital obligations.

TVA told the Budget Bureau it will need approximately 150 million dollars a year in the next few years "and probably some larger amounts in the future" to meet the growing demand for power in the Tennessee Valley area.

The TVA power system serves all Tennessee and parts of Kentucky, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, North Carolina and Virginia.

One precinct which normally had about 75 votes at the noon hour on an off-year election reported 36 voted at 10:30 a.m. Another precinct reported the voting was running about the same as it did two years ago and would have been between 160 and 175 voted by closing time whereas on an election year, where the mayor, chief of police and other officers were running, the vote would be a little more than twice that many.

Both the Democrats and Republicans have set up headquarters in each precinct, where callers are calling on voters of their party affiliation, asking them to get out and vote. Both parties are running fleets of automobiles for free rides to the polls in an endeavor to get the voters to the polls.

Reports indicate the $60,000 library bond issue is leading by a goodly margin, while the school levy in some precincts is a neck-and-neck issue. Several large precincts reported the levy has a good margin.

Antitrust Suit By Sedalian Is Dismissed

KANSAS CITY, April 5 (AP)—U.S. District Judge Albert A. Ridge today dismissed four antitrust suits against nine motion picture companies.

A settlement of the cases by attorneys for both sides for an undisclosed amount was announced.

The court also sustained a motion to vacate and dissolve an injunctive decree issued in the Electric Theater case against the companies. A motion for appeal by the defendants was dismissed.

A jury returned a verdict of $2,406,602 in the Electric Theater case and the amount was cut to $1,334,402 by Judge Ridge, the trial judge.

The defendants were Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp., Fox-Midwest Theaters Inc., Loew's Inc., Paramount Film Distributing Corp., R. K. O. Radio Pictures Inc., Warner Brothers Corp., United Artists Corp., Universal Film Exchange Inc., and Columbia Pictures Corp.

The four suits dismissed were brought by W. D. Fulton as owner of a theater here and of the Howard Theater at Arkansas City, Kan.; Gilbert Carter as trustee for the estate of Mrs. Mabel Carter, owner of the Liberty and Sedalia Theaters, Sedalia, Mo., and Nathan Zoglin and Mrs. Jennie Zoglin as owners of a theater here.

India Arrests 34 Japanese Fishermen For Boundary Trespass

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A government spokesman said today that 34 crewmen of Japanese fishing vessels were arrested "recently" on charges of illegally violating Indian territorial waters.

The spokesman told Parliament the men—32 Japanese and two Chinese—were caught off India's Andaman Islands in the Bay of Bengal. He said they would be released next month from a Calcutta jail where they are serving short sentences for illegal entry into India and fishing without licenses.

Winnie Bows Out With His Famous Sign

Eden Announcement Expected Any Time But He Stays Back

LONDON (AP) Sir Winston Churchill, flashing his famous V-for-victory sign, drove to Buckingham Palace today and resigned the prime ministry.

Shouts of "Good Old Winnie" sped the 80-year-old statesman from Downing street to an audience with Queen Elizabeth II, and back to the home of British prime ministers. Britain's leader in peace and war, he had served nearly nine years as Prime Minister.

Sir Anthony Eden, 57-year-old foreign secretary in Churchill's government, is to be the new Prime Minister. An announcement to that effect was expected tonight or tomorrow.

Churchill spent 41 minutes in audience with his young Queen. Wearing top hat, polka dot tie and a shining gold watch chain, he went to the palace by limousine accompanied only by his son-in-law and private secretary, Christopher Soames.

Eden stayed behind. A lone figure was seen peering from the window of his suite in the Foreign Office as Churchill left Downing St. on his momentous ride.

Soon after Churchill returned to No. 10 Downing St. at 5:15 p.m. Buckingham Palace issued this formal announcement:

"The Right Honorable Sir Winston Churchill had an audience of the Queen this evening and tendered his resignation as Prime Minister and first lord of the treasury, which Her Majesty was graciously pleased to accept."

More than 2,000 persons pressed into old Downing street as he left for the palace at 4:22 p.m.

Churchill was playing out his last role in the prime ministry he loved. A gray day had brightened into pale sunshine.

He posed for a full minute in the doorway of the historic home of prime ministers, so that photographers could record the scene.

The shouts and excitement seemed to catch some Britons by surprise. London newspapers were strike-bound and firm news of Churchill's impending retirement had come over the British Broadcasting Corp. only today.

Churchill reached the palace only a few minutes after young Queen Elizabeth II arrived there from an engagement on the Thames estuary Isle of Grain. The royal standard of gold and crimson fluttered up in the soft breeze as the Queen sped through the palace gates.

Churchill's pennant as warden of the Cinque Ports fluttered from his limousine as he whisked through the gates. Guards mounted near their sentry boxes came to the salute.

The Old Man's mood changed frequently while the black limousine carried him to the palace. At one point he looked serious and thoughtful, but he responded quickly to the loyal cheers of the crowds.

At each shout of "Hurrah, Winnie!" and "Good Old Winnie!" his face lit up in smiles. Some yelled with American accents. Dozens of American tourists and servicemen, with their familiar cameras at the ready, milled among the crowds at both Downing street and the palace.

There was little question the resignation was soon to be announced.

New Florissant Mayor Wins By 145 Votes

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Jules O'Neil, an attorney, yesterday was elected mayor of suburban Florissant by a margin of 145 votes.

O'Neil polled 1,158 votes to 1,013 for John Marshall in the non-partisan election.

There Is Bad Grooming, No Ugly Women

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

There are no ugly women—only badly groomed ones. That's the expert opinion of hairdresser Ralph La Polla, of San Francisco, and partner Andre Muzet, a Frenchman who's been designing American hair styles for more than 20 years.

"Any woman can look attractive—even outstanding—if her hair style and her clothes are planned just for her, to bring out her best features," says La Polla.

The two hair stylists aired these and other views while in New York for the recent International Beauty Show, which stirred up some consternation due to predictions of rainbow-hued tresses for women this spring.

"Don't worry about seeing women walking around with bright green or shocking pink hair," says La Polla soothingly. "Their husbands will never stand for it."

"American men usually are too busy making a living to worry about minor variations in their wives' dress and hair styles. But they have to draw the line somewhere, and I think they'll do it when any wife comes home with green hair."

Another theory advanced by La Polla: The reason you see such strange hairdos in almost any feminine gathering around this country is that American women plan their effects to impress other women, whereas French women dress to please men.

La Polla decries especially the "mixmaster look" of the recently popular Italian haircuts for women, and the ragged "mouse-chewed" line of the cut which millions of American girls copied after the style worn by Audrey Hepburn in last year's Broadway production "Ondine." Miss Hepburn's haircut was planned to enhance her role in the play as a water sprite. But of the ordinary citizens who copied it, La Polla comments:

"Do they want to look like fish or women?"

Republicans Conduct Rally At Hubbard High

Evelyn Cox, committeewoman, presided over the rally Saturday night at Hubbard High School. The meeting was opened with the invocation by Dan Murray, candidate for councilman in the second ward.

Mrs. Cox then presented Clyde Swafford, city chairman, who complimented Mrs. Bernice Jones and Mrs. Cox who have worked hard to find willing workers. He stated that we can't have good government by buying it. You have to vote for good government. He then introduced Mrs. J. W. Boger, stating that she has worked untiringly for civic improvement, that she will lend balance to the council and can be a check on all activities.

Mrs. Boger stated that some have to pay high taxes for the value that they receive, that in the spring we think of a clean-up campaign and that there certainly are a lot of things in Sedalia that need to be cleaned up.

Candidate Murray was introduced and made a short talk.

L. E. Sheridan, candidate for alderman from the third ward, was introduced and stated that the sincere representative is a servant of the people.

Hugh Jones, candidate for alderman from the Fourth Ward, stated that our government is based on checks and balances, but as long as our city government is all one party, there is no check at all. He suggested that in an organization built on good will, we will have a better chance to know our neighbor.

Ed Kehde, candidate for school board member, stated that schools and politics should not mix but we should all be interested in good government and that we all should be interested in a town where factories and businesses would like to come.

The meeting then became a round table discussion while refreshments were being served in the high school cafeteria.

Scientist Finds New Method Of Pesticide, Through Feet

MAN VERSUS INSECT: The homeowner comes after the farmer.

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent

STAMFORD Conn.—(NEA)—Dr. Frank Stark is a calculating man, a dangerous man, a killer.

He was polishing his eyeglasses with a large, white handkerchief. He was saying: "I like to kill them through the feet."

Along with 25 calculating, dangerous colleagues here, Dr. Stark is out to kill off the pests that destroy food, shelter and clothing and spread disease at an annual cost to Americans of $4,000,000,000.

In many cases, the quarry Dr. Stark stalks are almost too small to see. But in their mass attacks on the food supplies of this country, they yearly eat enough to feed 10,000,000 people. There are mites, moths, bugs, worms, aphids, hoppers, rollers and spiders.

There is also the kitchen variety of housefly.

It is against pestilences such as these that Dr. Stark—and others like him—are battling. And while it is good for humanity, it is also a highly profitable investment for the companies that finance the research.

The laboratory here in Stamford is owned by American Cyanamid. They want results: a pesticide that will kill the enemy. They also want profits: a pesticide that will be relatively easy and cheap to make. The market in pesticides is competitive with many large chemical companies offering their wares to the consumer.

By far the largest consumer of these chemicals is the farmer. His produce, livestock, milk and crops are measured by the ton and bushel. He will buy insecticides by the hundred-pound quantity. He will be offered the first crack at new chemicals.

It is the homeowner, staggering through the house with his fly-swatter poised, who gets the dregs of chemical research.

"He's just not a big enough market," Dr. Stark said. "After the farmer and dairymen have been taken care of, then maybe the pesticide can be marketed to the homeowner."

The job of finding an inexpensive but effectively toxic chemical is not the most efficient job in the world. Research starts off with random tests—any compound, common or exotic—on representative pests.

The scientists are looking for materials that will kill the bug but not the animals, plants or humans who are being attacked. At the same time, the chemical must be able to be combined with other agents. It will have to be used as a dust, spray, liquid, flake. And at the same time, the chemical will have to kill several kinds of pests to be most economical.

It took Dr. Stark's Agriculture Chemicals laboratory 4049 long and controlled tests to come up with their latest pesticide—Malathion. And then sample quantities had to be sent to State and Federal laboratories for extensive tests before it could be marketed.

The government had to know: was it toxic to other things besides the pests; was it compatible with other compounds; could it be packed and shipped safely.

Most important, however, were the analytical tests that had to be devised by Dr. Stark's men to detect Malathion—even in minute quantities—wherever it might show up. If a milk cow becomes sick, could it be the new pesticide? There must be a test to find out.

In the end, it cost American Cyanamid about $1 million to produce this pesticide that would work effectively, cheaply and for a long time after it was applied.

"Yes," Dr. Stark said dangerously, "It kills them through the feet."

Other companies have other chemicals that kill them in other ways. Shell Oil's newest wonders, Aldrin and Dieldrin, have shown themselves to be effectively toxic, too. And the old stand-by, DDT, is still going strong.

But there is the possibility that pesticides and the men who discover them are fighting a losing battle. There is no 100 per cent effective pesticide. And there are always going to be some bugs, stronger than their brothers, who will resist whatever chemical is sent to kill them.

There are reports today that some colonies of houseflies and mosquitoes are no longer bothered by the usually effective pesticides. They have not developed a resistance. They—and their grandparents—were resistant in the beginning.

Is it possible that with new toxic chemicals being developed, science is helping the laws of nature selection, killing off the weak insects and leaving only superbugs?

"It is possible," Dr. Stark said dangerously.

Uranium Driller Hits Water, Town Rejoices

KANAB, Utah (P)—This southern Utah desert community was in a tizzy today over a strike made by a uranium drilling crew not far away.

Uranium? No. Water—flowing at 100 gallons a minute from an artesian well. As one old-timer put it: "With this kind of water, that area would be better than a uranium claim."

The well was discovered on uranium claims owned by Standard Mining Co. of Salt Lake City and being drilled by Boyles Drilling Co.

Big news about Buick's 4-Door Riviera

THIS brand-new kind of automobile—the sensation of all the Auto Shows this year—is now rolling off the Buick assembly lines in volume numbers. That's the first news.

And the second is just as wonderful—this dramatic new model is very definitely everything that eager buyers hoped it would be. For the 4-Door Riviera is the first "hardtop" ever available with separate doors for rear-seat passengers—plus rear-compartment room big as a Buick-size family sedan.

It comes breezing in with all the low-lined sweep and wide open visibility of Buick's original 2-Door Riviera—and luxurious new spaciousness in its full-length 4-door body.

With windows down, no posts appear for the rear doors, and you get a completely unobstructed view at both sides.

You find rear doors are hinged at their front edges to swing wide and free, and assure easy entrance and exit.

And you'll find legroom, headroom and hip-room extra-generous both front and rear—with interiors tailored in fabrics and patterns specially reserved for the 4-Door Riviera.

Best of all, this new Buick beauty comes off the line in both the low-price SPECIAL Series and the high-powered CENTURY Series.

So you can pick your 4-Door Riviera with the potent performance of a 188-hp or 236-hp Buick V8 engine—the swift getaway and gas saving of Variable Pitch Dynaflo®—the velvet stride of the Million Dollar Ride—the long list of Buick bonus features at no extra cost—and all at "great buy" prices that have helped move Buick into America's "Big Three" of best sellers.

But—better come see us about the 4-Door Riviera now.

With all-out production—and a prompt order—this newest excitement in cars will be yours that much sooner.

*Dynaflo Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Custom Officers Halt Dope Smuggling Group

ROME (AP)—A multimillion-dollar smuggling ring whose opium and morphine was intended for U.S. addicts has been smashed.

Lebanese customs officers, cooperating with the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and police of Syria, Turkey, Italy, France and Egypt, are officially reported here to have:

1. Seized 500 pounds of opium.
2. Confiscated 43 pounds of morphine base.

3. Made six important arrests and obtained confessions tracing another 1,089 pounds of opium and 24 pounds of morphine base which slipped into Europe bound for America.

4. Broken up what a veteran police officer described as one of the four great dope smuggling rings in the Middle East.

5. Identified a Lebanese as king of the ring. He is still at large but a warrant has been issued for his arrest.

6. Cracked the smuggler's "secret weapon"—a racy British Jaguar sports car so sleek and expensive that European customs agents usually waved it past in belief it contained wealthy tourists. The automobile was honeycombed with secret compartments for dope.

Three Injured By Damaging High Wind
ABILENE, Tex. (U.S.A.)—At least three persons were injured today when tornadic winds ripped through the northwest Texas town of Stamford.

The winds ripped roofs, crushed garages and blew down power poles.

A vast chunk of northwest Texas reported damaging winds, hail and some rain.

The Weather Bureau warned severe thunderstorms and locally damaging winds were in prospect most of the day for a 100-mile wide path of Texas from Abilene to within 50 miles of Fort Smith Ark.

There were no serious injuries reported in the storm area.

The twisting winds hit Stamford about 6 a.m. Lightning cracked, thunder boomed and hail danced across rooftops and peppered the ground.

Most of the damage was to the southwest section of Stamford. The corrugated iron building that housed the Stamford Compress was smashed and sheet iron ripped away and tossed crumbled about the area.

A small grain elevator was demolished. So was an unoccupied camp for migratory farm labor.

The winds whipped from Stamford into a half dozen other cities and towns.

Bowie reported trees uprooted, plate glass broken and some buildings damaged when windstorm hit a little after 9 a.m.

Snyder reported hail. Haskell and Anson had rain and some hail.

Names of the injured were not immediately determined. State police said a woman and two small children were hospitalized with minor hurts.

Duo Arrested

cious and checked to find his check was worthless. He then contacted Prosecuting Attorney Harold Barrick and had a warrant issued for their arrest. The information was given the Sedalia police who in turn notified the State Highway Patrol.

Trooper Gregory was notified by radio to be on the lookout for the two and gave the car description as a blue Dodge with an Oklahoma license on it. Going west on Highway 50 Trooper Gregory noticed the car parked across the railroad track, and the color of the car, but his attention was attracted by the fact there was a man and woman in it eating.

He turned around and drove the Patrol car over to the Dodge. Getting out he became more suspicious when the man was almost speechless in telling his name. He also looked at the license and saw it was a Missouri issue, and checking further decided to return them to Sedalia to the county jail.

Whitaker told Trooper Gregory he found the Missouri license near Springfield, and that they changed the license between Smithton and Sedalia. They were driving a Hertz Rent-A-Car out of Enid, Oklahoma. They said they planned on going back to Tacoma, Wash., and turn the car into the rental agency there.

Tuesday it was learned through the State Patrol the two were wanted in Oklahoma. One message received by Trooper Gregory late Monday night was to the effect the woman was wanted in Oklahoma on a bogus check charge, while the man was wanted in connection with absconding with a rented motor vehicle.

Oklahoma authorities notified local authorities they would extradite the couple if released to them. Prosecuting Attorney Harold Barrick said Tuesday the two would be prosecuted in Pettis County. Whitaker and his wife are charged with obtaining money with the intent to cheat and defraud by means or by use of a check drawn on a bank in which they had no funds.

They were first picked up on a warrant issued on the check given the E. A. Lemke Grocery at Smithton for $20.

Both are being held in the county jail.

Says Refugee Program Goal Is In Sight

WASHINGTON (AP)—R. W. Scott McLeod has told Congress he thinks President Eisenhower's program to admit 214,000 refugees can be completed successfully by the end of next year.

McLeod, whose administration of the program has been under fire in Congress, gave this estimate to a House Appropriations subcommittee at a closed session Feb. 9. His testimony was made public today.

McLeod testified the full quota of refugee immigrants could be filled by the Dec. 31, 1956, deadline "at the rate we are going, and if we get the money we are requesting (16 million dollars for the fiscal year beginning July 1)."

He said about two out of every three visa applications are being granted.

A few weeks before this testimony, McLeod told newsmen the goal might not be reached, partly because American sponsors were slow in assuring jobs and housing for the refugees.

Controversy over the 18-month-old program, which some members of Congress complain has moved too slowly, has continued since McLeod testified. It was reported last month that about 22,000 visas had been issued under the program so far and that Edward J. Corsi, a special State Department consultant, had recommended drastic administrative changes to speed up the flow of refugee immigrants.

GOOD FARMING

in Pettis County

By MERLE VAUGHAN
County Extension Agent

The Insect Outlook

Jim Perry, and Steve Douglass, the vocational agricultural instructor from Green Ridge, and I had the opportunity the other night to hear a report on the 1955 insect outlook. The occasion was a district meeting at Clinton and the reporters were the extension entomologists, Stirling Kyd and Bill Thomas.

Needless to say the outlook is far from rosy with expected threats from grasshoppers, army worms, cut worms and cinch bugs. We are attempting to equip all insecticide dealers with control recommendations and weekly field reports of the appearance and activities of insects. The control recommendations are in a bulletin which sells at a cost of 25 cents and can be ordered through our office.

Soil Insecticides

Mr. Kyd feels that soil insecticides will be used as insurance on good corn ground. Either Aldrin or Heptachlor can be used and it can be put on at planting time or before. Apparently putting it in the starter fertilizer gives about equal results to spraying ahead of planting except for cut worms. The spray should be used ten days to two weeks ahead of planting and should be disced in immediately. The amount in broadcast spraying is one to 1½ pounds per acre with the heavier application where wire and grub worms are bad. If sprayed on in the row at planting time the application is ½ pound and up to a pound for the wire and grub worm.

Grasshoppers

A terrific number of eggs have been laid and early season spraying of hatching beds is a must. They probably will start hatching from May 10 to 15 and will stay around the beds for ten days to two weeks. That is the time to spray them and usually the application needed is only half as strong at that time as later. Five materials can be used including Dieldrin, Aldrin, Heptachlor, toxaphene and chloradane. Any of them can be mixed with a fence row spray for brush and weeds so grasshoppers and weeds can be sprayed at the same time.

Other Insects

Cinch bugs will be serious in the north and may be in Pettis County. Small grain next to corn should be checked before ripening. If a lot of bugs are present it is better to spray the small grain rather than to try to control them in the corn.

Some army worms have overwintered. If their moths lay eggs here in addition to those that usually fly in we may have serious trouble there.

House Flies

Recommendations are to spray manure piles thoroughly every five days with malathion spray. Also to use a dry bait or bait spray in places where they congregate.

Horse Flies

Beef cattle can be protected with the back rubber. The rubber should be soaked with five per cent DDT or toxaphene every week to ten days through the year. By relocating it for winter quarters, it will also give fair louse control.

With dairy cattle which are in every day the sprays are still probably best.

Gardens

Folks who have carried over the 1954 all-purpose spray will probably want to use it up. The methoxychlor is still the basis of the 1955 recommendation with Zineb, which comes under several trade names, added as a fungicide. Malathion is being added periodically to take the place of the lindane and aramite. It is not being used continually because of a reaction between it and one of the other insecticides. The methoxychlor and zineb should not be used within a week of harvest and the malathion within ten days. On leafy vegetables the pyrethrum and rotenone should be used.

Must Watch Residues

A new bill in Congress called the Miller Bill will give the Food and Drug Administration authority to set tolerance of insecticide in milk, etc. It will be effective July 22.

The Food and Drug folks have the reputation of setting "terrible examples" of people who are caught exceeding tolerances. That means we will have to keep dairy cattle off pastures for a safe period after spraying. The newer material, Dieldrin, appears to be one of the most economical. However, dairy cattle must be kept off sprayed pastures for three weeks and hay cannot be sprayed within four weeks of harvest.

Get Sprayers Calibrated

Probably one of the weakest spots in the 1954 control program was that folks did not get enough material on per acre. Some reported doubling the spray application and getting better results. When we checked some of those we found they were still getting on just about the right amount per acre. Each rig should be filled and checked over a half acre or similar area at regular operating speed to see how much material is going on per acre. From that the proper amount of insecticide to add can be figured.

Parents Hit a Snag; Name List Gets Short

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Florencio Garcia now have a dozen children but the matter of a name for the youngest, who arrived yesterday, is quite a problem.

The Garcias have a habit of giving their children first names starting with the letter E. The children, other than the newborn, range in age from 2 to 17 and are named: Eduardo, Enrique, Ernesto, Elena, Edmundo, Everardo, Esteban, Esren, Eugenio, Elizabeth and Elias.

Mrs. Romelia Garcia, 39, gave birth to a boy at Lincoln Hospital yesterday. Hospital officials inquired about a name but the Garcias say it is quite a problem to figure out another suitable boy's name starting with E.

What's Coming Up In 1960?...

Now that the election is mere hours away from being over one is privileged to speculate what has been accomplished by the columns of publicity and editorial comment on the school teachers' pay, the Sedalia library bond issue, the Boonslick library levy.

The main objective, of course, was to inform the voters and encourage them to go to the polls. Some readers might have become weary reading all this material. On the other hand the issues stimulated some reportorial research into the teacher situation and library background that even the old timers round about never heard of.

So, regardless of the outcome of the election the files of the Sedalia Democrat have been augmented with information of an historical flavor. The pages will be microfilmed and added to our news library of 302,400 pages packaged in a cabinet only 4 feet high and 20 inches wide.

But one weary individual has indicated he has become so well informed about factors in today's election that all the excitement has been squeezed out of it.

"Here's an idea for you," he says. "Start writing about the 1960 election, speculate about everything, raise issues, indulge in scathing attacks on personalities even though you don't know who they'll be in 1960. Get everybody in a stew, stir up things. Then maybe they'll forget all about the 1955 election and get their minds off the atomic catastrophes impending, including the latest this morning—the one about the peace-time, energy-supplying reactors that are likely to explode and scatter radioactive fall out over the countryside. Where do we go from here on this sunny morning?"

Well, speaking of a sunny morning we can resume discussion about daylight saving time. Votes from last week's coupons are coming in still, but not in such quantity as to indicate any crusading spirit for the change.

A breakdown on the DST vote will be coming up tomorrow along with revelation of how serious the Sedalia voters were about teachers' pay and library bond issue. On a beautiful day such as it has been there's really no excuse to have stayed away from the polls and neglected your citizenship obligation.

Those who didn't vote may continue this habit until 1960 unless their liberties will have been taken away before then because of their lack of interest in protecting themselves at the polls.

Women Want Top Posts In United Nations

There is a strong feeling in the Commission on the Status of Women in the United Nations that there are not enough women in high official posts in that organization.

Women in America have so many privileges that it is difficult for them to realize that in many parts of the world women are still covering their faces and have no choice in government and community life. It would be safe to say that a nation is as progressive as its women are free. The commission has made great progress in many backward countries, particularly in education, health and welfare. The present head of the commission is Miss Minerva

Bernardino of the Dominican Republic, who has been instrumental in improving conditions in her homeland through legislation for more schools, nurseries, hospitals and preventive social and health programs.

The women in this commission feel that after years of service in this particular field, they should have positions of authority in the larger unit and in the specialized agencies. Madame Pandit did attain the highest position in the United Nations, when she became president of the General Assembly. Other women of ability should also be considered for top level posts.

The Cross In The Window Suggests Purity

There is a large white cross in the florist's window. It is so white that its whiteness could suggest only purity.

The cross upon which our Saviour died was not a pure white cross, but a crude wooden cross, made from the wood of a nearby tree and carried by Simon of Cyrene to a place called Golgotha in the Garden of Gethsemane. With the crown of thorns upon His head, nailed to this wooden cross, Christians all over the world know that Christ died for the sins of all mankind.

That is why the cross in the florist's window is white, and rising as a symbol of purity and peace among the Easter flowers. It reminds all who pass by that although the cross they bear need not be heavy as the wooden one carried by Simon, it can be made white and pure in the knowledge that the Christ who died on Calvary will help anyone who asks Him to help, and life's burdens of sorrow, pain, worry and guilt will be lightened. That is the message of Easter — the Hope of the world.

Dulles Prefers Cheese to White House Quail

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The business-like atmosphere of Eisenhower's recent luncheon with House leaders was broken when White House waiters brought in the main course — quail hash on toast.

John Foster Dulles politely but firmly declined the entree, explaining he was trying to keep his weight down.

"I have been traveling abroad a great deal," explained the Secretary of State, "and I've been eating more than I should — purely as a matter of diplomatic courtesy, of course. As a result, I am growing a trifle pudgy in the waist line. I know you won't hold me to any protocol, Mr. President, and will let me eat what I want."

"Certainly," agreed Ike. "What would you like to have?"

"Well, if you have a little cottage cheese in the refrigerator, it would do very nicely," replied the Secretary of State.

The President called a waiter and told him to try to find some cottage cheese in the kitchen. As the waiter hurried off, House Majority Leader John McCormack of Massachusetts also announced that he would appreciate some cottage cheese. McCormack, a devout Catholic, didn't bother to explain, but Lenten regulations limit him to meat once a day and he was planning to have steak for dinner in the evening.

A few minutes later the waiter returned with only one portion of cottage cheese.

"That's all there was," he reported to his boss, the President of the United States.

An Alphonse and Gaston sequence followed as the Secretary of State and the House majority leader deferred to each other over who should eat the cheese.

"I insist that you eat it, John," said Dulles. "No, no, Mr. Secretary," demanded McCormack. "I insist that you eat it. I only ordered it to keep you company."

McCormack won out and the cottage cheese wound up in front of Dulles. The House majority leader unobtrusively pushed the quail hash to one side and ate some potatoes and red cabbage.

Princeton Professor Quizzes

The two White House luncheons with Senate and House leaders did not vary much except that at the second luncheon Senator Alexander Smith, New Jersey Republican and a former Princeton professor, got tangled up asking his own questions. His questions were so involved that the President stepped in to try to help him re-phrase them. Then Secretary Dulles came to the rescue; also tried to simplify the question so everyone could understand it.

As finally ironed out and boiled down, Senator Smith appeared to be asking: "Would the islands of Quemoy and Matsu be of any help to the United States in case trouble broke out again in Korea and we had to act there?"

The answer was: "No."

At both luncheons, the President refused to say whether the United States would or would not defend the two much-discussed off-shore islands.

"That is a military decision and I will make it, but I am not prepared to say now what or when it will be," he told House leaders. He added that he did not intend to tip off the Chinese in advance. Senators and congressmen got the distinct impression — though this was not stated — that there had been no decision on this highly important, highly delicate point.

Note — Ever since the National Security Council met in Denver last September, the joint chiefs of staff have been trying to get the President to give them a decision on whether or not we will defend these small islands. And it was to nudge Ike's elbow and make him come to a decision that Admiral Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs, got Admiral Carney to give his historic press briefing at which he let drop April 15 as the estimated date when the Reds would attack. The military have feared that if we pull out of Quemoy and Matsu at the last minute it will look like a defeat and lose face for use in the entire Orient. Hence they have wanted a decision.

House leaders were told that there had been some "sporadic firing" by Chinese artillery from the Chinese mainland, but the President explained this might have been aimed at creating tension. It did not necessarily mean that the Reds were ready for war.

"The situation is admittedly dangerous," he said in brief, "but it is by no means hopeless — as some people seem to think."

He added that he was quite optimistic about Europe, where conditions were greatly improving. Without naming names, the President placed himself in opposition to the estimate of chief of naval operations, Admiral Carney, that the Reds would attack on April 15.

Inside fact is that army intelligence places the attack date at around April 15, while Central Intelligence figures the attack will come in June. The President apparently sided with the CIA estimate. However, both intelligence agencies agree that, regardless of the date, an attack will be made on Quemoy and Matsu.

"If war does break," Eisenhower summarized, "the Communists will pick their own time. We can't be sure when it will be, but we don't think it will happen very soon."

No Bigger Army

One of the most important questions Eisenhower was asked — this one at the Senate luncheon — was whether he would agree to a Big Four conference. Senator George of Georgia, who recently urged such a conference was especially interested.

The President was not categorical in his reply, but indicated that he would be willing to sit down with Marshal Bulganin of Russia and with the French and British sometime later — probably in November.

This fits in with current Republican strategy to hold the conference at a time considerably removed from Senator George's recent suggestion so that the Democrats can't take credit for inspiring the meeting.

Another important question asked at both luncheons was whether in view of the military crisis in the Far East, the President would abandon his cuts in the size of the army.

In each case, Ike gave an emphatic no.

"The army is big enough for present or contemplated emergencies," he said. "However, if the situation changes radically and we are compelled to send a considerable number of troops overseas, we would in that event have to increase our reserves at home."

A Line--But Where?

As Sedalia Sees It--

'Keep 'em Guessing' Policy Seems to Be a Big Success

By Joseph A. Dear
Democrat-Capital
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Even critics will concede that the Administration's "Keep 'em guessing" policy is a brilliant success if it has created half as much confusion in Peking as it has here.

The underlying assumption is that the Chinese Communists will find it more difficult to cope with confusion than we will. Few Washingtonians would challenge this assumption. To them, confusion is normal.

The course United States will follow if the Reds attack the off-shore islands of Quemoy and Matsu, now held by Chiang's Nationalists, is shrouded in mystery. For several months responsible officials have privately said American forces would resist such an attack unless the Reds first renounced their intention of conquering Formosa.

United States is pledged to defend Formosa, which is about 100 miles from the Chinese mainland. Officials here have said an attack on either Quemoy or Matsu would be construed as the opening phase of an attack on Formosa itself. In the Chicomos fail to publicly retract their repeated threats to seize Formosa.

The determination to defend Quemoy and Matsu in the absence of a Chicomos retraction may be weakening. The matter is unclear, and a case can be made either way. About all that can be said with assurance is that President Eisenhower himself will make the final decision.

Whether the "keep 'em guessing" policy will deter a Communist attack on the off-shore islands is also open to question. Administration vagueness on the point may actually precipitate the attack we hope to deter.

The Reds may decide we don't intend to defend these small islands, and if that's the wrong guess, we may have to fight a major war to hold some of the least valuable real estate known to man. Or if the Reds attack, and we don't defend the islands, American prestige takes another nose dive.

Not much light was shed on the issue at the latest Presidential press conference. The President deplored speculation about the possibility of war in the Far East. Such speculation, he said, didn't serve the cause of peace.

President Eisenhower also discounted the likelihood of an attack on the off-shore islands during April. "If anyone is predicting it will be that soon, and can give me logical reasons for believing it will be that soon, they have information that I do not have," the President said.

That left Admiral Robert Carney, Navy Chief of Staff, out on a lonely limb. Last week he told a group of newsmen an attack by mid-April was certainly possible, and perhaps probable. He said the Chicomos had men and planes enough to hit the Matsu group, according to newsmen present. The entire interview, incidentally, was an "off the record" affair.

The White House struck back immediately. At another "off the record and don't quote me" affair, Presidential press secretary James Haggerty disputed Carney's assertions. Haggerty told newsmen present that President Eisenhower didn't believe the Chicomos had concentrated sufficient force to attack the Matsu group by mid-April. In short, Haggerty challenged Carney's facts as well as his estimate of the situation.

All of which is somewhat disturbing. It suggests an absence of teamwork by the Administration. Does the White House have in its possession intelligence denied the Joint Chiefs?

At any rate, Admiral Carney is not the only member of the "team" who has speculated about the possibility of war in the Far East. He is merely the first who provoked the White House to action.

Just this February 2, many newspapers carried an "inspired" story which disclosed that: If the Chicomos challenge the United States either by a testing action or a full scale attempt to take Formosa or one of the islands related to its defense, the Administration is prepared to engage in "limited war." It's an open secret that Vice President Nixon was the source of that.

On March 20, Secretary of State Dulles told a New York audience that United States might again have to "forego peace to secure the blessings of liberty." Next day he described the far eastern situation as "somber." A few weeks before he said the "Chinese Communists seem to be determined to conquer Formosa."

Admiral Carney didn't say much more than Dulles did. And he said considerably less than Nixon did.

Graham Bounces Back After a Brief Bout With the Flu Bug

GLASGOW, Scotland (P)—Back in action after a brief bout with influenza and sore throat, Billy Graham preached to 16,650 persons in Glasgow's Kelvin Hall last night.

At the close of the service 439 persons came down front in answer to his invitation to make "decisions for Christ."

Earlier yesterday Graham went to Edinburgh for a rally with several hundred British soldiers, sailors and airmen at Redford Barracks.

Graham's headquarters announced last night a total of 337,750 persons had attended the American evangelist's meetings in Glasgow since he opened his six-week all-Scotland crusade March 21.

LE NORMAND'S death was an unsolved mystery. The police had never been able to find the murderer, but they don't find every murderer anyway. Galli-Galli and his cards was a trick, in a night club where I was none too sober and probably easy to fool. Most mind reading of the sort I'd accused Selena of on the Montauk road was a matter of close observation of the small gestures and expressions of the other person, and Selena was a highly intelligent woman. She had pulled on the brake because some scrap of sound or a flash of sun reflected from the approaching car had warned her. And as for the fire at Cloud Mesa, she had simply found a match. There was no part of my story which did not have a rational explanation.

"All those things," Dr. Lister said quietly, "are out of the ordinary. But I don't see any mystery in them. I can think of an explanation for every single one. Except LeNormand's death, of course."

"And Jerry's," I said brutally. "Yes," he replied in a low voice. "That is the hardest of all for me to accept."

"There are some common factors," I said. "There's no explanation in either death. The presence of Selena, Jerry and me in the vicinity both times. And LeNormand's questions were part of the setting."

"Anything else?" "And there was a fire, both times."

He nodded. "Jerry had nothing to do with the fires. And I didn't. That leaves Selena. Selena and the equations."

The pieces were slowly fitting themselves together in my mind, but nothing was wholly clear yet, and the picture which was forming was not translatable into ordinary words. "The only other thing I'm sure of," I said lamely, "is that when Jerry realized Selena had managed to light the fire, he thought at once of something else."

"And that means, or suggests, that if you are right the answer must lie in her."

There was no shadow of doubt in my mind on that point. "It's got to. If we knew who she is and where she came from—"

"Luella Jamison?"

"What do you think?" He shook his head. "I don't see how she could be. Even if the idiosyncrasy were the result of some mechanical factor, and not congenital, it could not have cleared up so fast."

WHEN he finally spoke he chose his words slowly and carefully. "Selena is the most intelligent and the most beautiful woman I've ever met." He paused again, and went on in an altered voice. "I was not entirely happy about Jerry's marrying her. She seemed hard to me, not merely on the surface but all the way through. I kept watching her, hoping to see her tender or openly in love with Jerry, and I never did. She was cold and reasonable; impersonal is perhaps the word, and I never knew whether she was different to Jerry. I worried about it. I didn't believe, till tonight, that she had another side at all."

I was puzzled. What, I wondered, had I told him to make him revise his estimate of Selena?

"You told me that the first evening you were out there, she was reading one of Jerry's old books. Do you remember saying that? One of his old books of fairy stories."

"I was trying to remember what story she was reading," I told him finally, to explain my silence. "I only looked at the few words I told you about—" "The Little Mermaid," he said, "the saddest and the best of all Andersen's stories. You must have read it. Don't you remember the little mermaid princess who lived at the bottom of the sea? One day she came up to the top of the water and saw a ship with a prince in it. She saved him from drowning and brought him to land. And she fell in love with him."

IT came back to me with a rush.

"The witch transformed her fish's tail into legs and feet, but whenever she walked she felt as if she were treading on sharp knives. She gave her tongue to the witch, so she could not speak. And she agreed that if she didn't win the prince's love, she had to die without an immortal, human soul." He looked away. "Jerry always used to cry about that part of it."

The rest of the story was flashing through my mind. How the little mermaid, after devoting herself to the prince, found that he was going to marry someone else, and how, on his wedding night, she slipped over the rail of the ship on which the wedding party was sailing, and dissolved into the sea foam.

Perhaps. But in the instant when the memory of the story completed itself in my mind, another explanation for Selena's reaction to it occurred to me. She might have cried because the story was moving and beautiful—or because it was true.

It was a fantastic, horrible notion, and I wanted immediately to stop thinking of it. I remembered Jerry's face as he looked at Selena there on the settle before the fire she had somehow managed to light. Certainly there had been horror and incredulity in his eyes.

The World Today--

Churchill Respects Stability

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (P)—Nothing symbolized the life of Sir Winston Churchill better than the clothes he wore and the way he acted last night just before, as Londoners believed, he was ready at last to retire as prime minister.

He had on the traditional full court dress at his dinner party for the Queen: knee breeches, silk stockings, frock coat, ruffled shirt. And, hatless in the rain, he bowed low in the traditional way as the Queen stepped from her car.

Although he was the real head of government, and the Queen only a figurehead, the monarch represents continuity in government. Churchill's clothes and his bow were for this symbol of stability: continuity.

The two greatest revolutionaries of the 20th century, Lenin and Hitler, rose and died during Churchill's 80 years. He had no sympathy with either. He fought both. He was neither a revolutionary nor a social planner.

He was the great conservative of the 20th century. His life and his energy were spent in conserving the British Empire.

For the British people he was a vivid and sturdy bridge between the past and the present and, perhaps, the future.

No man of his time had a greater sense of history. It was fortunate for his countrymen in their time of troubles. He could make them feel through his language, which was rooted in history, a direct connection with their ancestors.

He was not an architect of a new world. He may have dreamed of being one before he got too old. He had hoped for a big conference, which might have brought peace, between himself, President Eisenhower and the Russians.

Time marched over him and the dream faded. But if he could not remake the world at least he did his best to hold together the one he knew until other men came along who had more time to try to improve on it, if they didn't destroy it first.

Police Strength Is Said Trailing Crime Increase

WASHINGTON (P)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today the nation's large cities have not increased their police strength to keep pace with a higher crime rate.

Noting that statistics show heavily populated areas to be the favorite hunting ground of criminals, he said:

"The average 1.5 police employees per 1,000 inhabitants in the 10,000 to 25,000 (population) category increases to only 1.7 in cities with a maximum of 250,000, and to 2.3 in those over that population figure."

"Assuredly, police agencies must have sufficient forces to guarantee the welfare of the citizens under their jurisdiction. Certainly it is sound strategy to take up the challenge presented by the growing problem in the major cities of the country."

Hoover expressed his views in a signed editorial in the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin, which is circulated to police agencies throughout the country.

"The average citizen runs far greater risk of being victimized by the vicious or stealthy criminal in the heavily populated cities than in the smaller urban communities," he said, asserting that a principal reason is "that the number of police officers in the large cities has not kept pace with the higher crime rate."

Hunt Goes On For Convict's Gun Source

RAIFORD, Fla. (P)—A hunt was on today for clues to the person who smuggled a gun to a convicted bank robber in state prison.

George Heroux, 25, using the .25-caliber Italian revolver in an apparent attempt to escape yesterday, killed J. G. Godwin, 56, the prison's assistant superintendent, and wounded two guards.

Heroux still had one bullet in the gun when he was overpowered by guards in a corridor leading to Supt. L. F. Chapman's office. He was placed in solitary confinement.

L. E. Dobbs, 54, was shot in the right shoulder and L. L. Wainwright, 31, in the left thigh.

State Atty. T. E. Duncan began questioning prison personnel yesterday in an attempt to find how the gun was smuggled to Heroux.

The last person to visit Heroux was his father George, on Saturday. The father is from Providence, R.I., and is visiting at Keystone Heights near here.

Heroux was in a cell on the detention corridor when he called a guard to ask to go to the toilet. He suddenly showed the pistol and demanded to be taken to Chapman's office.

As they reached the last corridor, Godwin and six guards on duty saw the gun and began to close in. Heroux then started firing. In a moment he was overpowered but not before the three men had been hit.

Sees Enough Salk Vaccine Production For 30 Million Shots

NEW YORK (P)—A polio authority expects drug firms to make enough Salk vaccine before June 30 to immunize 30 million persons. Earlier estimates called for 18 million.

Dr. Hart Van Riper, medical director for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said yesterday this additional production should satisfy the demand for vaccine and keep shortages from developing.

A's Trade Or Buy To Develop Team, Says Arnold Johnson

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Arnold Johnson says the Kansas City Athletics are willing to pay for new players "or make trades, or do whatever is necessary to develop a winning team."

The A's new owner added that "in three years it looks like we will be a contender."

He spoke last night at a dinner given in honor of persons who helped bring the Athletics from Philadelphia to Kansas City.

Among those attending was former President Harry S. Truman. Truman sliced the first piece from a 3½ foot high cake molded in the form of the Kansas City Municipal Stadium.

Baseball notables included William Harridge, president of the American League, and three former major league stars, Frank (home run) Baker, and Jimmy Fox both of the Athletics and Rip Collins, one time St. Louis Cardinal.

Guests also included Gov. Victor E. Anderson of Nebraska and Maj. Gen. Ralph Emmel, Wisconsin adjutant general.

DeMarco Confident Of Beating Basilio And Holding Crown

NEW YORK (AP)—Confident he can beat anyone in his class, welterweight champion Tony Demarcio has signed to defend his four-day old crown against patient Carmen Basilio in Syracuse, N. Y., June 10.

"I promised to meet Basilio if I won and this is my answer," said the 23-year old Bostonian after he signed an official contract yesterday before Julius Helfand at the state athletic commission offices. Helfand is chairman of the commission.

"I felt at my best when I beat Johnny Saxton," said Demarcio who stopped the champion in the 14th round in Boston Friday night.

"I've seen Basilio two or three times on television. I know he's strong and durable. But I feel I'm ready for and can beat anyone in my class."

Basilio wasn't present at the signing ceremony before Helfand. The Canastota, N. Y., contender had signed contracts earlier to meet either Demarcio or Saxton.

In the last eight games, he's pounded out 13 hits. In the Athletics' 7-1 victory over Columbia of the South Atlantic League yesterday, Zernial hit his fifth homer in five days.

The Athletics were scheduled to meet Winston-Salem of the Carolina League today with Ozzie Van Brabant and Art Ceccarelli scheduled to pitch.

Owners of Yanks and A's Interlock In Money Deals

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Among baseball men, as they gathered this spring in Florida and talked off the record to their friends of the press, there was evident a growing feeling of disquiet over the interlocking relationship between the owners of the New York Yankees and the Kansas City Athletics, both of the American League.

This feeling, close to fear, will not be dissipated to any extent by the latest offering of Arthur Mann, an author who has had long experience in the game's inner circles. In an article entitled "How to Buy a Ball Club for Peanuts," appearing in this week's Saturday Evening Post, Mann supplies the previously unpublished details of how Arnold Johnson, owner of the new Kansas City franchise, purchased Yankee Stadium from Del Webb and Dan Topping late in 1953.

After declaring that the sale of the stadium, together with the Kansas City park, netted Webb and Topping each a capital gains advantage of more than one million dollars, Mann continues:

"Webb and Topping not only sold their property to Johnson's especially created New York corporation and then rented it right back but also lent them much of the money he needed to buy it. "A rundown on the ways in which Arnold Johnson raised that $6,500,000 purchase price will give a good index as to how he operated. First, he sold the New York property to the Knights of Columbus for $2,500,000 and then leased it back for 28 years at annual rentals of $125,000 for the first four years and $181,250 for the last 24—a total of $4,850,000.

"Meanwhile, the rentals Johnson would be receiving from the Yankees over the same period started at $600,000 a year, winding up on a descending scale at $350,000—a total of $11,500,000. Net rent profit to Johnson for the 28 years: $6,650,000.

"Second, Johnson obtained a 10-year loan of $500,000 from a co-partnership identified only as Atwell & Co. Third, Johnson negotiated a 20-year second mortgage for $2,900,000 with Webb and Topping themselves. Finally, he obtained a $100,000 mortgage on the Kansas City property.

"These four items added up to a total of $6,000,000 which left only a comparatively modest balance of $500,000 to be assumed by the Johnson corporation. Later, even the $500,000 was more than recouped by Johnson through selling his Blues Stadium to Kansas City in the course of the Athletics' deal.

Nick Kerbawy, general manager of the Lions, comes here today to talk it over with the Doaker. They will announce at a press conference this afternoon if Walker is to continue in football or retire to private business.

The Doaker says he doesn't know himself. "I don't know if they even want me," he declared. "But if they do I have this decision to make: I can't play football the rest of my life. I am 28 years old and I must get started in a profession.

It sounds like Walker is leaning toward retirement but Doak talked like that two years ago before he signed his last contract.

Walker figures he has played in at least 175 football games in his ward school, junior high school, college, service and pro football career.

"I've been in organized football 18 years," he said. "If I cared to fudge a little I could say 19 because I played on the fifth grade team when I was in the third grade. That's a lot of miles running up and down a football field isn't it?"

Old-timers Are Favored In Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga., (AP)—Since the Masters is a golf tournament that puts a premium on achievement and a strain on credibility, it isn't too hard to imagine one of the old timers like Byron Nelson or Lloyd Mangrum winning it this year.

It's even easier to believe that Sam Snead or Ben Hogan, who have copped the big prize in five of the past six years, will come back to take the honors from the brash youngsters who have dominated tournament golf this winter.

This is a tournament that "unknowns" just don't win.

Ten Sedalia Teachers Take Late B-E Day Tour of Air Base to Meet Pupils' Queries

What makes the long streaks in the sky as the jet bombers from the Sedalia Air Force Base go sailing along way up high? The streaks that look like long white clouds? That happens when the exhaust gas from the plane mixes with the moisture in the atmosphere and it is only when there is a certain type of weather. A certain amount of moisture must be in the air.

Every child has wondered about the streaks and so have the grown-ups. Now the children are fortunate enough to have teachers who made the tour at the air base Saturday to learn the answers to the many, many questions they have wanted to know about.

This tour of the base had been planned for the Chamber of Commerce Business-Education Day but the weather was too bad. So the teachers were again invited for Saturday. In the group were three sisters from St. Patrick's School, Sister Rosaire, Sister Anna Robert and Sister Louise DeMarillac; from Mark Twain were Jack Delph, Mrs. Georgia B. Zulauf and Kenneth Cordry; from Broadway, Miss Merle Repper; from Whittier, Donald Reynolds; from Jefferson, Miss Anna Elliott, and from Hubbard, Beverly R. Foster. Two employees from the Chamber of Commerce also were on the tour. Mrs. Ike L. Warren and Miss Clarice Mettler. Conducting the tour was Capt. John Herbst, public relations officer at the base.

Leaving the Chamber of Commerce office at about 9 a. m. Saturday on a bus, the group assembled at the Officers Club for coffee and to meet Col. A. J. Beck, 340th Bomb Wing commander and Col. Charles V. Neil, base commander.

This was followed with a briefing at the club. Col. Beck made a short but impressive talk on the Strategic Air Command. "Our motto," he said, "is to preserve peace by remaining strong. We must do that if we are to have peace."

Lieut. Nail then talked on missions, telling of the manner in which the missions were planned and the working together of not only the bomber crews but the ground and refueling crews as well. Col. Miller talked on "Organization" and Capt. Willoughby told of the special services which provides entertainment of various kinds for the men on the base, and the records of personnel affairs which are kept up to date for the men. Lieut. Williams spoke on the off-duty educational program to get men interested in gaining a better education and Operation Boot Strap to help them finish college.

Major Bryan talked on "Expenditures." The base, he said, represents a capital of $150,000,000 and it takes a lot of money to run a business that size. He gave an outline of expenditures and stated that $15,877,000 was spent in the local area.

Major Gibson, talking on "Material," told the group they could not imagine the vastness of maintaining of all the equipment on the base.

The second place the group was taken was to the Air Base Training Flight. This was in charge of Lieut. Roth, M. Sgt. McGrow and Major Poore. Sgt. McGrow stated that the four months basic training included an aptitude test, at which time the new men are given a preference of what they want to do and in that period it is found how best they might serve the four years. Sgt. Smith, jet instructor, then explained the jet engine, which is one of the six that powers the B-47. The exhaust at the rear, he said, propels the engine and the six are more powerful than any railroad locomotive. They are not good for low altitude, he said. On these engines, he pointed out, all moving parts may be seen.

Next was the hydraulic room, which furnishes the braking action in slowing the plane. All lines are painted a certain color so repairmen will know at once what is broken and trace the trouble quickly.

In the electrical sections, the group was shown the batteries, generator, smaller units such as instruments, the actual controls in the co-pilot plane and instrument panel. All operate automatically.

In the power plant the reciprocating engine was shown in which all the parts could be seen moving. The jet engine is an improvement over this because there are not so many parts to cause trouble.

The new ejection seats of the planes were shown. All three crew members have such seats. The pilot goes first, the navigator whenever he gets ready and the co-pilot last. These are new models.

The actual cockpit of the B-47 was shown where the training is given exactly as it would be in a real plane and the same experiences which the pilot might encounter in the air.

A number of years ago, Capt. Herbst told the group, the bomber squadron supply administration was all over the base, now it is all in one building. The largest room in the building is the briefing room. Various charts in planning missions are on sliding doors under glass and the route may be charted on the map by red crayon on the glass.

In this building, too, is the chart room where the missions are planned, the crew lounge where the crew waits for its plane to go on the mission. Here the men do whatever they please until that time and there is also a snack bar. The group of teachers was then shown a B-17 and was invited to go inside. From there they were taken to a KC-97 refueling plane, and the method of refueling in the air was explained.

The planes in different stages of repair were seen and most parts for them can be made in the machine shop of stainless steel.

One of the highlights of the day was the luncheon in the Officers Club, at which time the group was joined again by Col. Beck and Col. Neil.

The day ended with a ride around the grounds, with Capt. Herbst pointing out the various buildings, all painted white with green trim. The last place visited and where all got out was the little chapel at which two Catholic masses are held each Sunday and one Protestant service. As yet the base has no Jewish services, but it will in time. They, too, will be held in the little chapel.

They Shuck Army Tradition To Modernize Atomic Troops

By NEA Service
CAMP DESERT ROCK, Nev.—(NEA)—The Army is proving that it can throw off the fetters of tradition.

The two men in charge of the Army's part in the current series of atomic tests here probably represent more Army tradition than any two men you could find in uniform. But they are now in charge of helping to indoctrinate more than 5000 U. S. troops in the revolutionary aspects of maneuvering around live atomic explosions.

Brig. Gen. Fred W. Sladen, Jr., was born on an Army post, lived on Army posts all of his life and went to school at West Point. He was in combat in the Mediterranean Theater during World War II. He's the on-the-spot commander of all troops taking part in the live atomic tests.

The man with the official title of "Director of Exercise" is Lt. Gen. Willard G. Wyman, also Commanding General of the Sixth Army.

He probably has more time in Army cavalry units than any general on active duty. But his old love for the mounted service does not influence him in the face of growing evidence that the small, highly mechanized, mobile unit is what is needed to put the Army on an atomic warfare footing.

"Throughout the world American soldiers are being trained to fight on either an atomic or non-atomic battlefield," he says. "Our combat unit structure is being re-examined and new combat division organizations now are being tested in the field.

"We hope to indoctrinate as many soldiers as possible in the effects of atomic weapons as long as the possibility of fighting a war on an atomic battlefield exists."

Gen. Sladen adds: "The safety of our soldiers is uppermost in all our planning and actions at the Nevada test site and our record of not a single injury as a result of atomic detonations since the Army began operations here speaks for itself."

The Colorado State Employment Service figures showed unemployment was up, but so were employment and the number of jobs. The area is attracting new population because of the recent uranium boom.

Senator Anderson Becomes Expert Of Atomic Progress

SEN. CLINTON P. ANDERSON studies some AEC equipment.

DENVER, Colo.—(NEA)—Since Clinton P. Anderson (D., N.M.) has been chairman of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee he has naturally learned a lot about nuclear power and weapons.

He has visited most of the Atomic Energy Commission establishments and even learned how to run some of their unusual equipment. But he is afraid that the great mass of people in the U. S., and the younger people especially, aren't learning enough about atomic energy fast enough to keep up with the needs for new people in this field.

Thus, he has set about to crusade for more and better atomic education in this country and launched his drive at a meeting of the Western Conference of American Association of School Administrators. Here are some of his views:

"Our nation will fall behind in this atomic age unless we rebuild our school curricula with an eye to the future and start rebuilding now."

"A nation competing in the atomic age must have oncoming crops of inquiring minds steeped in science. Only such minds as these can keep the nation permanently in the business of protecting itself militarily while it squeezes out the civilian blessings inherent in a new and economical source of energy."

"U. S. schools need to take the full share of training of these young scientists in order that our community may know what to do with the by-products of an atomic age—new type factories, new dangers from radiation, new problems from radioactive waste—yes, and new schools.

"We should equip all students with a basic knowledge—the very rudiments of the atomic age—and stimulate and inspire the minds of every one of them. From them we then can select the geniuses who may somehow carry on this very advanced work."

Tunnel Cars Planned

NEW YORK (AP)—Narrow-gauge electric cars are being tried out for use of patrolmen in the Holland and Lincoln tunnels under the Hudson River linking Manhattan and New Jersey.

The cars have transparent plastic bodies, travel on a track on the raised 30-inch catwalks of the tunnels and have speeds of 6 and 12 miles an hour. They are planned for use by police who now walk the ledges to keep an eye on traffic. If use of the car is approved, four patrolmen would be able to do the work that now takes six. But cost of installing four cars in the two tunnels would be $700,000.

Fires Destroy Home, Chick House In G.R.

By Mrs. Verna Palmer
GREEN RIDGE — The two story frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Howery and family southeast of Green Ridge on Highway 52 was destroyed by fire about 4 p. m. during the recent heavy snow storm.

Due strong wind in the storm the blaze had gained such headway before it was discovered that it was impossible to extinguish the flames.

The brooder house on the Paul Curtis farm northwest of Green Ridge was destroyed by fire Friday morning, March 25. Perishing in the fire were 200 few weeks old chickens.

The Rev. H. W. Chaney, Sedalia, conducted worship services at the Green Ridge Baptist Church on Sunday April 3 at 11:00 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. H. A. Hite attended the Convention luncheon of the Missouri State Medical Society Auxiliary held at the Crystal Room of the Hotel President in Kansas City, Mo., last Monday. The luncheon was attended by approximately 200 physician's wives.

Slight Increase In Hepatitis Cases In Sedalia

In the past two or three weeks there has been a few more than the average number of cases of infectious hepatitis or yellow jaundice in this area. There is nothing alarming about this increase and it has in no way approached epidemic proportions, according to the Pettis County Medical Association.

Infectious hepatitis is a virus disease which affects primarily the liver, causing changes in this organ that results in jaundice in varying degrees. In years past it was called yellow jaundice, a very descriptive term, and sporadic cases have occurred for many years. It is primarily a disease of the younger age groups. However, the older groups can contract the disease.

The disease usually starts with loss of appetite, fatigue, vague abdominal complaints, occasionally nausea, vomiting and fever. The incubation period may be two to three weeks and the disease usually runs its course in about the same length of time. There are usually no ill effects or complications. However, individuals having the disease should remain quiet in bed. There is no specific medication to shorten its course.

Studies done by the health department indicate that inoculation with gamma globulin before or soon after exposure may prevent or lessen the severity of the disease. It has been shown that mass inoculation, inoculation of a whole school, is of little or no value, and is best reserved for family contacts. However, even then its value is questioned by many medical authorities.

The best preventive measures are to pay particular attention to sanitary measures and personal hygiene and health, such as avoiding undue fatigue and strict attention to washing hands after toilet.

Gamma globulin is available at the district health office here in Sedalia, should your family physician advise it for family contacts. It is available at no cost. However, your family physician may make a reasonable charge for giving the vaccine.

Judge Declares Sanity Not Required of Jurors

INDIANAPOLIS — Criminal Court Judge Saul I. Rabb rejected a request that jurors in a robbery case be examined by a psychiatrist. He said there were a number of grounds on which jurors could be barred, but there was no law requiring that they be sane.

Snow Rings Montana Town, Isolates It

MARTINDALE, Mont. —This central Montana community was snowbound without snow today.

Cold Gets The Birds
BOYNE CITY, MICH. —Caught in a surprise cold wave, two swans were frozen into the ice that formed on a mill pond in the Boyne River. While Police Chief Floyd Newville and Conservation Officer Ed Hartnell were preparing for rescue operations, nature took a hand.
